KING PETER ON BLOODY THRONE

Solemn Oath Taken by Descendant of Black George.

CHEERS BY THE POPULACE

MINISTERS ASSENTED THEMSELVES FROM BELGRADE.

BELGRADE, June 25.—Amidst great enthusiasm King Peter this morning took the oath before the skupschina. Subsequently he had a review of the troops. The oath taken by the king was in the following terms:

"I, Peter Karageorgevitch, on ascending the throne of the kingdom of Serbia and assuming the royal prerogative, swear by Almighty God and all that is holiest and dearest to me upon this earth that I will protect the independence of Serbia and its unity of government; that I will maintain inviolate the constitution of the government; that I will govern in conformity with the constitution and the laws; and that in all undertakings and dealings I will keep the welfare of my people before my eyes. Taking this, my oath, solemnly before God and the people, I call as witness the Lord God, to whom I shall give account at the judgment seat. So help me God, Amen."

Parliament Assembled.

Previously to the king's taking the oath there was a joint sitting of the senate and skupschina, attended by a religious service at which the metropolitan officiated.

The president of the senate opened the session with the announcement that the king would take the oath to maintain the constitution. King Peter then appeared wearing his orders and decorations and accompanied by his cabinet ministers.

The metropolitan uttered a brief prayer and then read the oath which the king repeated in a firm voice. Loud cries of "Long live Peter!" punctuated the king's repetition of the oath.

After the king had bestowed the benediction all present joined in the national hymn.

The king took leave of the assembly with the words "God be with us, brothers."

Parade of Soldiers.

On the parade ground four regiments of infantry, two regiments of cavalry and four field batteries of artillery and horse batteries were drawn up before a large crowd of people in carriages, on horseback and on foot. A pretty pavilion on the ground was filled with ministers and their families. Both the Russian and Austrian military attaches were present.

King Peter, wearing a general's uniform, and mounted on a white horse, formerly ridden by the late King Alexander, and surrounded by a brightly uniformed staff, took up a position in front of the pavilion while the troops marched past. The king's fine body of men, but their equipment was not practical.

Rode Off Amid Cheers.

King Peter, after a march past, rode off, followed by shouts of "Long live King Peter!" He returned direct to the palace, cheered everywhere along the route.

During the day the king had several conferences with the ministers and a royal proclamation was issued, and was well received. It is believed that the question of punishment of the assassins of King Alexander and Queen Draga will be allowed to lapse. It was remarked that Colonel Maschin, minister of public works, who took a leading part in the assassinations, kept in the background during the ceremony at the parliament building.

A considerable number of the poorer classes of the people have placed candles on the tombs of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

ONLY TWO REMAINED.

Paris, June 25.—The French minister to Serbia has reported the circumstances attending the departure of the ministers from Belgrade as follows:

All the ministers, except the Russian and Austrian, had received instructions to act together. Accordingly an understanding was reached that they should depart, this step being regarded as the most emphatic method of expressing the protest against the assassinations of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

The Russian and Austrian representatives, however, did not withdraw, because Russia and Austria were apprehensive that a united withdrawal of the diplomatic representation at Belgrade would precipitate another revolution. The officials here say the entrance of the ministers to Serbia now becomes an entente of powers expressing a protest against the terms of Serbia's notification to the powers of the inauguration of the new regime.

ANOTHER CLOUDBURST

HITS LUCKLESS TOPEKA

Topeka, Kan., June 25.—A rain so tremendous in volume that it was practically a cloudburst fell over Topeka about midnight last night. A number of residents in South Topeka were compelled to leave their homes and flee to higher ground, while a few of the smaller houses were washed from their foundations.

Soldier Creek, which was such a factor in destroying North Topeka recently, came up with a rush and today drowned the highway across the bridge. The Kaw is also rising.

TRAINMAN INJURED.

Grand Junction, Colo., June 25.—At Clifton, six miles east of here, today, passenger train No. 5 on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad was derailed by a freight, which was taking a siding. The passenger engine was derailed, and with the tender, caught fire immediately. Engineer Price of the passenger jumped and broke two ribs and sprained both ankles. Fireman Elvins, who also jumped, was slightly injured.

MAIL FOUCH FRAUDS.

Baltimore, June 25.—In the United States district court here today indictments were formally placed against C. E. Upton and Thomas McGrogan, employees in the postoffice department in Washington, for participation in the mail pouch frauds. The accused men are out under $5,000 bail.

DIED OF SMALLPOX.

St. Petersburg, June 25.—Joseph Peters, an engineer of Milwaukee, died here today of smallpox.

KAISER VISITS THE KEARSARGE

German Emperor Much Pleased With What He Saw.

EVERYTHING IN SHIPSHAPE

ADMIRAL COTTON COMPLIMENTED OFFICERS AND MEN.

KIEL, June 25.—"I shall telegraph to the president today, sir," said Admiral Cotton, while up the port gangway came Admiral Secretary von Tirpitz, Admiral von Soden-Biberg, General von Bessen, and Count von Eulenbergh. Admiral Cotton and his staff, Captain Hemphill, all the other American commanders and all of the officers of the ship, except the midshipmen, who were at quarters, received the emperor on the quarter deck.

The emperor came along the starboard quarter of the Kearsarge, steering his own barge and attended by Captain von Gummme, while up the port gangway came Admiral Secretary von Tirpitz, Admiral von Soden-Biberg, General von Bessen, and Count von Eulenbergh. Admiral Cotton and his staff, Captain Hemphill, all the other American commanders and all of the officers of the ship, except the midshipmen, who were at quarters, received the emperor on the quarter deck.

Compliments Exchanged.

"I am happy to welcome your majesty on an American ship," said Admiral Cotton. "And I wish that I were receiving you on American soil."

"I am very happy to be here," the emperor replied. "He then shook hands with all the captains whom he met yesterday, calling them by name, and with all the juniors, who were presented in turn."

"Now, captain," the emperor said to Captain Hemphill, "I want to see your ship."

Captain Hemphill thereupon led the way with the emperor, Admiral Cotton following, accompanying the members of his majesty's suite.

Emperor William entered one of the double turrets and scrutinized the mechanism. Lieutenant Mustin of the Kearsarge showed the emperor the speed and armor with which the turret could be turned.

Kaiser Asked Questions.

"What is the real value of these turrets?" asked the emperor, turning to Captain Hemphill.

"They have been known in war, sir," replied Captain Hemphill, who then explained the theoretical effectiveness of the gun fire on which the turrets are based.

Emperor William explained some of the French experiments with double turrets, in which sheep in one turret were killed by the shock of the gun fire in the other.

"That," said the captain, "was due to the shortness of the guns which the French have been using. The long guns of the Kearsarge change the field of the highest concentration."

Captain Hemphill's ready and lucid explanations of the Kearsarge's armament to the emperor, who was a man who knew his business.

In calling the attention of one of the members of his suite to Captain Hemphill's services on the Monitor when she first went into action and to some other naval matters, the emperor added:

"Those men are gods to us."

In the Conning Tower.

His majesty also said that the conning tower was the most roomy he had been in with the telephonic and signal apparatus in very part of the ship. The emperor was naturally familiar, and he pointed out one or two good new things. The German contraptions have been found to be trouble with electrical connections and the emperor was especially interested in them. At present the Kearsarge's general electric system is inoperative, as it is enclosed in semi-permanent constructions.

While the emperor was inspecting the men's services he conferred with several of the bluejackets and jokingly asked one old hand how long he had been in the service. The sailor replied:

"Twenty-four years, sir."

"That is long enough to be an admiral," said the emperor.

Ease in the Cabin.

When his majesty's inspection of the Kearsarge was finished the party went to the admiral's cabin, and the emperor, seeing a large rocking chair, exclaimed:

"What is this for?"

"For emperors," replied Admiral Cotton.

"Then I will take it," said Emperor William. Some bottles of champagne were then opened.

After a quarter of an hour's general talk the emperor left the battleship and Admiral Cotton assembled the entire company and addressed them as follows:

Pleased With What He Saw.

"The emperor has inspected the ship quickly, but very thoroughly. His majesty is a judge of all technical naval matters. He expresses himself as greatly pleased with what he saw. I thank the officers and crew of the Kearsarge for the condition of the ship. I hope every man here will remember that he is a representative of the United States and that he will conduct himself in such manner as to bring credit upon his country and his name. We are here by order of the president. It is our duty to do all in our power to preserve the feeling of friendship and cordiality between the United States and Germany."

Three cheers for his majesty, the emperor.

The 700 officers and men of the Kearsarge then gave the hearty cheers for Emperor William.

SMITH WILL TRY TO CLEAN HIS SKIRTS

Washington, June 25.—Former Postmaster General Smith, who arrived in Washington this afternoon, had a long talk with Postmaster General Payne tonight. Mr. Smith is going to make an answer to the charges reflecting on his administration during his term of office contained in the recent report of the civil service commission, and he had made arrangements for copies of some data now in the postoffice department, which he will utilize in this statement.

Mr. Smith found Postmaster General Payne somewhat improved over his condition of the past few days, and said he would be able to attend the cabinet meeting.

PRESENT CABINET IS RETAINED RACE RIOT IN WILMINGTON

King Peter of Serbia Has as Advisers the Men Who Plotted the Assassination of Alexander and Queen Draga.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 25.—A riot broke out on the streets here late tonight between whites and negroes, which for a time assumed serious proportions. The arrival of a squad of police, however, quickly dispersed the participants. Two arrests were made. A large gang of negroes, numbering probably 200, who had been marching up and down Ninth street, was challenged by about twenty-five white men, and in the battle that followed over 100 shots were exchanged. A squad of policemen under Captain Evans and Sergeant McDermott rushed to the scene and charged upon the mob. The negroes and whites scattered and fled in all directions, but the police succeeded in capturing two negroes—Leander Moore and Joseph Shockey. The policemen used their clubs freely and in the melee attendant upon the arrests Sergeant McDermott and Patrolman Green received slight wounds. One negro, James Mercer, was shot in the head during the riot, but his wound is not believed to be serious.

In a brawl in another part of the city William Cramer, a negro, was shot in the stomach by a white man. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

The leaders of the party of negroes which was marching by Ninth street tonight declared that they intended to resent the attacks made upon members of their race last night. They say they have been badly abused and that they do not intend to quietly submit to such abuse. They say they have sympathy for White, the negro who was lynched, but that, on the contrary, most of their race in and about Wilmington approve of his lynching.

Both cars were filled with people. The boys, it is said, were dodging about, trying to keep out of the sight of the conductor, who was working his way back collecting fares. Suddenly there was a cry and the passengers looked around in time to see one of the boys caught between the car and a pole, and thrown under the rear wheels. Motorman Pickering felt the car jerk and brought it to a stop as quickly as possible. Running back to where the accident had occurred, he found the boy lying on the ground. Dr. Raley, who happened to be on the car, came to his aid. The boy was still gasping and was carried to the side of the car.

Death Came Soon.

The patrol was called to carry the lad to a hospital, but he was dead before the wagon arrived. No one in the crowd knew the boy and he was carried down the street by the parolers of Joseph E. Taylor. In his pocket was found a school report, giving his name, and it was also written in the top of the report.

An examination of his body showed that it had been torn by a sharp instrument and crushed. From the wound it appeared that a foot or so of the pole had caught the boy in the stomach and ripped it almost to the arm pit. His leg was also broken in several places, evidently by the trailer running over him. There were several bruises on his head, apparently caused by coming in contact with the pole.

As soon as the identity of the lad was learned Superintendent O. P. Arnold of the street car company notified the uncle, George D. Roper, of the nephew's death. At the request of the former no word was sent to the mother.

Conductor Bestwick says that he did not see the boys on the car, as he was busy gathering fares and had not gotten back to where the lads were. The first he knew of the accident was a jump by the car, indicating that it had struck something. Motorman Pickering says the car was running only at half speed, and as soon as he felt the jar he stopped.

Jumping on and Off Car.

A woman passenger, who would not give her name, told Conductor Bestwick that young Roper had been jumping on and off the car all the way from the circus grounds, and she cautioned him several times to get away from that side of the car. Only a few moments after warning the boy she heard a scream and felt the car jump as it ran over him.

Mr. Arnold says that he spent the entire evening at the circus grounds, watching the cars to keep boys from jumping on them, and he thought he had been successful in preventing this accident. He declares that it is impossible to keep the boys from getting on the pole side of cars.

FEELING RUNNING HIGH SOCIALISTS GAIN MORE SEATS IN THE REICHSTAG ON REBALLOTINGS

Race Riot Almost Precipitated by Arrest of Alleged Lyncher at Wilmington.

BERLIN, June 25.—Reballotings were held today in 130 Reichstag districts. The vote was unusually large. The returns indicate that the various parties made a supreme effort to defeat the socialist candidates. Hence the latter have not been elected in the same proportion at today's reballotings as in 1898. Nevertheless, the socialists have the satisfaction of defeating Dr. Dietrich, a writer of the Reichstag, and Herr Oertel, the leading agrarian editor of the Tages Zeitung. The socialist publisher, Herr Geck, has defeated Herr Bassermann, the national liberal leader at Karlsruhe, and Dr. Broemel of the Barth section of the radical party has succumbed to his socialist opponent at Stetting.
